An aspiring Scottish showjumper has received a windfall from the UK's biggest ever Lottery winners.

EuroMillions winners Chris and Colin Weir, who pocketed £161million in 2011, have supported numerous good causes since their win.

Little did Robbie Mason realise that buying an inexpensive listing on The UK Sponsorship Database would transform his life.

The listing was seen by EuroMillions winners Chris and Colin Weir who won £161 million in 2011.

The word allowance gave Robbie the chance to provide full details of his needs to any prospective sponsor.

So affected were Chris and Colin by Robbie's achievements and determination that they stepped in to help him straight away, purchasing a horsebox and two ponies – with support that has so far amounted to £100,000.00.

Robbie is just one of the large number of individuals and organisations in sport, the arts, the charity sector, education and the media who have benefited from their listings with us.

Mr Mason put a plea for funding on the UK Sponsorship database and the Weirs, who have links to the area, came across the request.

So far their support has led to two new ponies and a horsebox, a payout of around £100,000, said Robbie's father Robbie snr.

"Their help has made so much difference to us. It's given Robbie a chance to stay at the top level," said Mr Mason.

The UK Sponsorship Database really lives up to its claim of being the premier online database of UK sponsorship opportunities.
